BIO

Ned is a general business lawyer who handles complex business and real estate matters including structuring of entities and transactions. He regularly structures mergers, acquisitions and dispositions, and in connection with this structuring, he counsels clients on the most appropriate type of entity to be used, and prepares the formation of the chosen entity.

He provides legal counsel to Colorado financial institutions and often provides special representation for out-of-state lenders engaging in business in Colorado. He often serves as Colorado counsel for very large lending transaction involving assets located in Colorado, and frequently provides lender legal opinions in connection with these transactions. His financial industry expertise covers the full spectrum from loan documentation, operational and regulatory issues, consumer lending issues, asset-based lending and problem loan resolution, acquisitions and dispositions, bank holding company formation and regulation, lender liability issues and more. With the implementation of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, Ned's extensive knowledge of the Colorado Uniform Consumer Credit Code is particularly useful to out-of-state consumer lenders.

Because of his extensive professional experience in agricultural transactions and lending, and due to his long-term personal involvement in cattle ranching and irrigated farming in Colorado, Ned is well versed in the intricacies of agricultural legal matters including farm and ranch acquisitions, dispositions and lending.
